

Some things cannot be fixed. They can only be carried.

Megan Devine will revolutionize the way your audience thinks about grief, relationships, and communication - all while keeping them interested and engaged.*

*even though she's talking about things most people like to avoid.

Speaking on grief and loss in a way that neither dismisses pain, nor denies healing, author Megan Devine encourages audiences to rethink their relationship to loss - and to love. Her talks and workshops help people build truly supportive personal and professional relationships. With a specialization in grief due to out-of-order or unusual deaths and other life altering events, Megan's approachable techniques provide simple (though not easy) ways to love each other better - no matter what life brings.

Megan is a licensed psychotherapist, grief advocate, and sought after speaker. Her new book, It's OK That You're Not OK: Meeting Grief and Loss in a Culture That Doesn't Understand, is available from Sounds True on October 1, 2017. She's written for (among others): HuffingtonPost, The Manifest-Station, and Modern Loss, and is a frequent podcast guest. You can see and hear her speak, and read a more extensive bio, on her site, Refuge in Grief.

Megan is available for keynotes, professional trainings, in-service events, conferences, book talks, and public lectures. Any of her talks can be adapted for professional, community, & religious/spiritual organizations.

The Dougy Center

"My friend and I were equally struck by your ability to launch off on an idea and still find a way to make it circle back around to the initial question. It was a mental rollercoaster - the good kind."
- Jana DeCristofaro, Coordinator of Children's Grief Services, The Dougy Center

World Domination Summit

Of all the talks this weekend, Megan's had the most immediate impact. It changed how I listen - to friends, and to myself. It was a hard talk - but it made such a difference.
- Nancy, WDS attendee

The StartUp Sessions

I first heard Megan speak at WDS. This year, she was on my podcast. She and I engaged in one of the most meaningful conversations I've had all year. And I have A LOT of conversations!
- Michael Knouse, The StartUp Sessions
