

Megan was very thorough in making sure she was prepared for her talk, and it showed - she knocked it out of the park. The moving delivery of her personal story, plus her issuing a challenge to our community to do better around grief, led many attendees to cite Megan's talk as a highlight of our programming.

- Megan Rosenbloom
Director, Death Salon

MEGAN DEVINE

Revolutionizing the way people think about grief, relationships, and communication.

Speaking on grief and loss in a way that neither dismisses pain, nor denies healing, author Megan Devine encourages audiences to rethink their relationship to loss - and to love. Her talks and workshops help people build truly supportive personal and professional relationships. With a specialization in grief due to out-of-order or unusual deaths and other life altering events, Megan's approachable techniques provide simple (though not easy) ways to love each other better.

Megan is a licensed psychotherapist, grief advocate, and sought after speaker. Her new book, It's OK That You're Not OK: Meeting Grief and Loss in a Culture That Doesn't Understand, is available from Sounds True. She's written for (among others): Huffington Post, Modern Loss, and Bustle Magazine, and is a frequent podcast guest. You can hear her speak and read a more extensive bio on her website Refuge in Grief.

Megan is available for keynotes, professional trainings, in-service events, conferences, book talks, and public lectures. Any of her talks can be adapted for professional, community, and religious/spiritual organizations.

SOME THINGS CANNOT BE FIXED They can only be carried.

SIGNATURE TALKS

- Some Things Cannot Be Fixed: Why Acknowledgment is the Best Medicine We Have
- The Ethics of Small Town Grief: When Everyone Knows Everything
- It's Not Just Grief: Why Talking About Loss Matters
- Say This, Not That: How to Help Someone You Love
- Death, Grief, and Social Justice: Responding to Violent Deaths
- On Grief and Writing: How Telling the Truth Heals

SPEAKING INQUIRIES: support@refugeeingrief.com